

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday	Saturday
					1	2
3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Sunday AM Worship 1 (w/Live Stream) 9:00am - 10:00am https://youtu.be/IYtIscp-2UQ Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

Sunday AM
Worship 2
(w/Live Stream)

11:00am -
12:00am
<https://youtu.be/4Af8OztOq1I>
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

Sunday AM
Worship 1
(w/Live Stream)
9:00am - 10:00am
https://youtu.be/2q9HGDmB_Mg
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

Sunday AM
Worship 2
(w/Live Stream)

11:00am - 12:00am
<https://youtu.be/FvygLxSBeq8>
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

17

Sunday AM
Worship 1
(w/Live Stream)
9:00am - 10:00am
<https://youtu.be/DHOHZtlWWhg>
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the 18

19

20

21

22

23

format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

Sunday AM
Worship 2
(w/Live Stream)

11:00am -
12:00am
<https://youtu.be/dsTboslwTAK>
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

24	25	26	27	28	29	30
----	----	----	----	----	----	----

Sunday AM
Worship 1
(w/Live Stream)
9:00am - 10:00am
<https://youtu.be/EIP6IW4D2sg>
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

Sunday AM
Worship 2
(w/Live Stream)

11:00am -
12:00am

<https://youtu.be/vDoCHQ72jhc>

Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

31

Sunday AM
Worship 1
(w/Live Stream)
9:00am - 10:00am
<https://youtu.be/esqUCjrppk>
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

Sunday AM
Worship 2
(w/Live Stream)
11:00am -
12:00am
<https://youtu.be/Lu>

CN3nfv6dM
Governor Abbott has modified what we can do, and we are changing the format of our services to take advantage of the relaxed guidelines. We are now allowed to have up to 50 people in the auditorium, rather than just 10. With that increased capacity, we are going to begin having Sunday services for more people in person. However we are going to continue to livestream our services, and we strongly encourage any of our at-risk members to consider staying at home for a few more weeks and participating with our worship through the livestream. We encourage any of our members who are uncomfortable assembling with that many people to continue participating through the livestream, and please also stay home if you are at all concerned that you might be contagious. We normally have far more than 50 people at a time at our services, so what we will do starting this weekend (May 3) is have two services that are nearly identical. We're asking half of our congregation to attend a 9:00 service, and the other half to attend an 11:00 service. The two services this week will have the same sermon and the same introduction to the Lord's Supper. The song leaders and prayer leaders will be different. Livestream links for this week will be posted above this message on Saturday.

Category Key

■ Worship Assemblies